International March Of The Living Robert H. Jackson Continuing Legal Education Program

Sponsored by The New Jersey Bar Association, Rutgers University, The Miller Center For Community Protection and Resilience

March of the Living is an annual educational program which brings students, educators, and Holocaust survivors from all over the world to Poland to study the history of the Holocaust, honor the memory of those who perished, and examine the roots of prejudice, intolerance, and hate. Since its inception in 1988, more than 250,000 alumni from 52 countries have marched down the same 3-kilometer path leading from Auschwitz to Birkenau on Holocaust Remembrance Day-Yom Hashoah-as a silent tribute to all victims of the Holocaust.

"The wrongs which we seek to condemn and punish have been so calculated, so malignant, and so devastating, that civilization cannot tolerate their being ignored, because it cannot survive their being repeated."

-Justice Robert H. Jackson
Chief US Prosecutor and architect of the Nuremberg Trials

The Robert H. Jackson Continuing Legal Education Program will offer an opportunity for attorneys to earn credits towards their CLE requirements while simultaneously learning about prejudice and the dangers of intolerance through the study of the Holocaust. Participants will travel to Poland to take part in the March and to attend classes designed to establish a deeper understanding of genocide and anti-Semitism, and the legal responses and consequences of the Holocaust. They will also tour significant sites in the Krakow and Warsaw vicinities, led by distinguished Holocaust scholars, and hear first-hand accounts from Holocaust survivors.

Friday, April 13

9:00-11:30am: The Role of Lawyers and Judges in the Holocaust

Moderator: Stuart M. Lederman, Partner, Riker Danzig

Panelists: • Joshua Greene, Author, Justice at Dachau • Dr. Christoph Safferling, Friedrich Aleksandr Universitat Erlangen • Ingo Muller, Author, Hitler's Justice

This panel will explore the ethical dimension of the role of lawyers and judges in facilitating -- and in some cases frustrating -- the Nazi program of isolating, and ultimately eliminating, German and European Jewry. Its relevance to the modern practice of law cannot be overstated. Lawyers and judges are confronted on a regular basis with potential ethical dilemmas relating to the organizations in which they work, the clients they represent, and the relative justice or injustice of the legal framework within which they practice. The history of the conduct of lawyers and judges during the Nazi period offers object lessons in the pitfalls of conformity to an unjust structure and of the real cost of the exercise of courage in struggling against overwhelming injustice.

11:45-1:00pm: Luncheon keynote: Professor John Q. Barrett, St. John's School of Law: Robert H. Jackson and the Holocaust

Justice Jackson is rightly celebrated by many as the leading Supreme Court Justice of his era -- and perhaps of the twentieth century. But his greatest legacy may lie in his work during the Nuremberg Trials. In insisting that the gravest atrocity could be not merely avenged but brought to justice within the rule of law, Justice Jackson became, in those months, the conscience of world civilization.

Friday, April 13

1:15-2:45pm: Never Again, Part One: Modes of Direct Intervention

Moderator and Presenter on the role of civil litigation in the post-Holocaust era: Richard D. Heideman, Senior Counsel, Heideman Nudelman & Kalik, P.C., and Former Chairman, US Holocaust Memorial Museum Lawyers Committee, Washington, DC

Panelists: • William Shawcross, Author, Justice and the Enemy • Dr, Elisa Forgey, Director, Holocaust Education and Genocide Prevention Program, Stockton University • Eli Rosenbaum, US Department of Justice

Legal efforts to rectify modern atrocities and to prevent future genocides are an underappreciated legacy of the effort to do justice after the Holocaust. This panel will explore several such efforts, ranging from the use of civil litigation to compensate victims of terrorist attacks and to frustrate efforts to conceal assets, to the continuing efforts to find and prosecute perpetrators of genocide, to efforts in settings from Iraq to Rwanda to prevent genocide from occurring where atrocity seems imminent.

3:00-4:15pm: Never Again, Part Two: Modes of Prevention: Lessons from Europe and the United States

Roundtable Moderator and Presenter: John Farmer, Special Council and University Professor, Rutgers University, Former Dean, Rutgers University Law, Former New Jersey Attorney General, Former Chief-Counsel to the Governor, Special Counsel to the 9/11 Commission

Roundtable Panelists: • Jonathan Biermann, Director Jewish Community Security, Brussels • Jonathan Fischer, Director, Jewish Community Security Copenhagen • Richard Benson, founder, CST, London • Gabriela Jraskova, Director of Security, WJC, Prague • Chief Saad Amrani, Belgian Federal Police • Paul Goldenberg, Director Secure Communities Network (US)

With close to 1 billion people worldwide living in nations other than where they were born, we live now in a world of vulnerable populations. This panel will explore the legal aspects of ongoing efforts to protect vulnerable populations in Europe and the United States. It will highlight the potential legal obstacles to police-community cooperation and facilities protection in different settings (e.g., laws regarding privacy protection, laws discouraging collaboration, building codes and zoning laws that compromise security), and will identify methodologies and best practices to achieve greater security for vulnerable populations.

- Friday (Shabbat) Dinner Keynote: A conversation between Malcolm Hoenlein, Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations and John Batchelor, host of the nationally syndicated John Batchelor Show. (Introduction by Paul Miller)

Against the backdrop of the rising tide of right-wing and neo-Nazi sentiment in both Europe and the United States, this address will highlight the role that lawyers should play in mitigating the effects of this resurgence and in frustrating its ultimate goals.
